CAUSATIVE VERBS: HAVE/GET SOMETHING DONE. Have something done and Get something done are both used to refer to actions which are done for the subject rather than by the subject.

causative verbs | Verb | Linguistic Morphology

In linguistics, a causative (abbreviated CAUS) is a valency-increasing operation that indicates that a subject either causes someone or something else to do or be something or causes a change in state of a non-volitional event. Prototypically, it brings in a new argument (the causer), A, into a transitive clause, with the original S becoming the O. All languages have ways to express causation ...

The modal verbs of English are a small class of auxiliary verbs used mostly to express modality (properties such as possibility, obligation, etc.). They can be distinguished from other verbs by their defectiveness (they do not have participle or infinitive forms) and by the fact that they do not take the ending -(e)s in the third-person singular.. The principal English modal verbs are can ...
