A finite difference is a mathematical expression of the form $f(x + b) - f(x + a)$. If a finite difference is divided by $b - a$, one gets a difference quotient. The approximation of derivatives by finite differences plays a central role in finite difference methods for the numerical solution of differential equations, especially boundary value problems.

A vector space (also called a linear space) is a collection of objects called vectors, which may be added together and multiplied ("scaled") by numbers, called scalars. Scalars are often taken to be real numbers, but there are also vector spaces with scalar multiplication by complex numbers, rational numbers, or generally any field. The operations of vector addition and scalar multiplication ...

Box and Cox (1964) developed the transformation. Estimation of any Box-Cox parameters is by maximum likelihood. Box and Cox (1964) offered an example in which the data had the form of survival times but the underlying biological structure was of hazard rates, and the transformation identified this.

By making subtle changes in the amplitude of the swing near the top of the circle, just before or just after the moment when the swing stops and reverses, the ringer can make the necessary timing adjustments for controlling the position of the bell in the ringing sequence.
